A Bold Train Robbery in Mississippi.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS NOTES.

Items From Harrison's Home—The Great Smuggling Conspiracy—A Louisiana Fatal Fury—Chicago Anarchists.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 16.—The Picayune's special from Grenada says: Passenger train No. 2 on the Illinois Central, left New Orleans at 10:30 A.M. on Dec. 11 at 10:30. When the train stopped at that point two men bounded the engine and commanded the engineer to pull out fast, at the same time covering him with a rifle.

On the road with them they compelled him to stop. The engineer and fireman were marched to the express car. One of the robbers knocked on the door and said: "The robbers entered and took $3000, all there was in the car, from Messenger Hill."

Firing of their pistols before they entered the car, and at the instance of Conductor Mr. Johnson, who rushed out and was immediately fired upon. He returned to the train.

Mr. Charles Hughes of Jackson, Tenn., then ran out with a Winchester rifle. As he stopped to the ground from the smoking car he was fired upon. One shot struck him in the arm and another hit the left arm and shoulder. The death of this young man is very sad as he was the only support of a widowed mother.

Nine shots were fired after him by Conductor Johnson and three others. Four were fired on the body of Leslie Hawes, found in the lake yesterday, and returned a verdict that deceased came to his death at the hands of his father, R. R. Hawes.

Explosion of Dynamite.

BUCKLEY, Dec. 16.—A dynamite bomb exploded this morning, killing four and four out of the robbery, but the latter succeeded in making their escape.

The robbers were greatly alarmed, fearing for the safety of their valuables and their lives. It is believed neither of the men were hit by the shot fired at them.

The place of the robbery was an open low bank on the side of the woods. Both robbers ran eastward into the swamp. A posse is being organized to join in the chase, and bloodhounds have been secured to aid in trailing them.

NORTHWESTERN INTERESTS.

Little Chance for the Portland and Salem Public Building This Session.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Congressman Hermann with eager solicitude has been striving for recognition in behalf of the public buildings in Portland. He has the advantage at present of having the Portland bill at the head of the calendar, to be considered the day it can be obtained, notwithstanding the day of some bills in the Senate is in question, however, there is very little prospect for the bill. Friday the democratic leaders gave notice through Blaine of Georgia that not another bill could be introduced for any public buildings.

This was in response to a motion of Warner of Missouri, who was recognized by the speaker and asked unanimous consent for the introduction of his bill. At the session of congress for the purchase of a building site in Kansas City for the construction of a public building for the United States post office, a bill was introduced by Warner the representative from that district and the present commander of the Grand Army of the Republic and Kansas City, with a population of about 100,000 people, is without any public buildings.

In response to Hermann's representations before the department as to the necessity of the bill, the bill was introduced. The bill, however, the government will make provision for an adequate system of buoys, not only on the bar but the channel of the bay.

THE COMING WEEK IN CONGRESS.

A Sternness of Tone Will Be Made in the House to Test the River and Harbor Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—In the senate the tariff still holds the right of way over other measures, as it will be considered from time to time, but the bill.

On the river and harbor bill, the government will make provision for an adequate system of buoys, not only on the bar but the channel of the bay.

DENUNCIATION OF THE DEPUTIES.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Boulangist congressmen of the Parisian canal bill, Camille Deshayes writes: "The deputies' abandonment of 850,000 francs is a crime for which the policy of deflationary purpose for the past two months is responsible. The bill, if passed, the deputies permitted citizens to be ruined, when they did not need to risk a sou to save them."

Delessps' Failure.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—When Delessps heard of the rejection of the Faunus bill his cause of the tax to cover the cost of the war was lost.

He had been unable to secure a third reading. "Yes," replied the other, "and the tax to be paid by the Omanians is high. Captain Castie, the Italian expert, Lieut. Weissmann had received no counter orders as yet with regard to the relief expedition."

Another White Traveler.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Herr Merensky, chief of the African mission, thinks that Emin is more likely to be captured by the Omanians than by the Turks. The Omanians are a people of the desert, and are not likely to be captured by the Turks.

That remains me of a story," said Jenkins, as he straightened himself up to curse the turkey. "A story of an occurrence that happened to me in the hospital." Dr. James M. Hubbard, of the Foreign Board, then inclines to a negative answer. Gen. Wolseley will not be seriously anxious until news from Emin comes up to February last

His Unexpected Death Occurs at Seattle.

THE RESULT OF A SEVERE COLD

Pneumonia, With a Compunction of Other Duties, Ends His Life—His Career as Lawyer, Legislator and Judge

SEATTLE, Dec. 15.—Chief Justice Charles E. Boyle died this evening at his rooms in the Old Hotel.

Monday, Dec. 10, Judge Boyle took the steamer for Mount Vernon, in Skagit county for the purpose of holding court there.

On the way he had the pleasure of viewing the steamer which was entirely new to him.

He contracted a severe cold, which developed into bronchitis.

He was, however, able to finish the term of court and returned to the city on the Thursday following.

Since then he has been confined to his room, but at no time thought that his illness was serious.

On last Wednesday his wife insisted that he prescribed the usual remedies, but the judge continued to grow worse, and on Friday he went to the Hospital to get advice, which combined with heart trouble and a bright disease of the kidneys, with which he had been afflicted for some time created a complication that caused the physician to feel uneasy.

Dr. Holmes, his son, called his physician to assist him, and friends who came in to offer any assistance in their power.

At 5 o'clock Judge Boyle became unconscious, and died at 7:30, until 7:05 when his spirit took flight. His dying bed was surrounded by his wife and son, the physicians, Attorney General Metcalfe, Mr. and Mrs. J. Firth, Mr. J. M. Thompson and several others.

He had been embalmed and will be buried back to Uniontown, Pa., for burial in Oak Grove cemetery beside his daughter Lucy.

Judge Boyle arrived in Seattle on Sunday

November 10, to fill by presidential appointment the place left by the lamented

Chief Justice A. J. Jones, who died suddenly

August 15. Though he had been here so short a time, he had impressed all with whom he came in contact as a gentleman of sound disposition and qualified in every way to discharge the duties of the important office of chief justice.

The announcement of his death coming so shortly after his arrival, without any knowledge that his condition was at all serious, is regarded as a calamity not less to be mourned than the decease of Justice Jones, whose demise was even less abrupt than his.

The chief here, whose association with the new chief justice had been so short but nevertheless so pleasant, is in universal mourning while the public grief is hardly less generally felt and expressed. The bar association will meet tomorrow to take action on the decease.

Charles E. Boyle of Uniontown was born at Uniontown Fayette county, Pennsylvania, February 4, 1836. His early education was had in the schools of that town and at Waynesburg, Pennsylvania. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in December 1851 and has since continuously practiced the profession. In 1862 he was elected district attorney for Fayette county, and held that office three years. In 1865 he was elected to the Pennsylvania legislature and was re-elected in 1866. Serving two years. The last year of his service he was a member of the committee on war and naval and other military subjects. He was president of the democratic state convention in 1867, and again in 1871. In 1872 he was nominated as the democratic candidate for attorney-general of Pennsylvania, but failed of election by a small majority against him. He was a member of the St. Louis democratic national convention of 1872 and to the Cincinnati national democratic convention of 1880. For six or seven years he was by appointment of the governor one of the commissioners of the Western Pennsylvania hospital of Dumont, and was elected to the forty-eighth congress from the Twenty first Pennsylvania district receiving 16,683 votes against 12,709 for S. Seneca Greenback-representative Hill who voted for the pro-slavery party. He was re-elected to the Forty ninth congress and was chairman of the special committee which investigated the Pan electric line.

The following personal description of Judge Boyle was published in The Oregonian at the time he passed through Portland in November on his way to Seattle to take the chief justiceship of Washington territory, to which he had been appointed by President Cleveland.

He is a tall, slender man, with a dark complexion, full featured, a prominent forehead, and has an iron-gray mustache but no beard.

He is a member of the law firm of Boyle & Mestress and one of the most prominent lawyers of western Pennsylvania. He has been attorney for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for a number of years. His practice is in the law office of a young man who is a young man, his competitor. He read law with Hon. Daniel Kane, one of the members of the Pennsylvania constitutional convention.

His name was mentioned in connection with the nomination of a candidate for the state convention but he declined all of them. Three years ago he was tendered the office of solicitor general of Pennsylvania, but declined.

In 1870 he was the democratic nominee for judge of the court of appeals of the 1st district, which is democratic but was defeated by the republican nominee who received 625 majority. A split in the ranks of his party helped to defeat him.

He was appointed to the Magistrate Handcock seat on February 7, 1871. He has two children attending school at Philadelphia, a son, John, practicing law at Uniontown, George a farmer, and Charles now attending Washington University.

He has figured as an attorney in several cases with the bar, and has been a member of every section of the bar in the country.
